More freedom for our four-legged friends

Petdoors change the everyday life of pet owner

21.06.21

Discipline and routine are not foreign words in the everyday life of a pet owner. Sleeping a little bit longer than usual? Not really, the dog has to go out eventually. Outdoor cats want to explore the outside world early in the morning, while other cats and dogs want to go out at night. This means masters and mistresses not only serve as reliable "can openers", but also as door butlers. Of course, as a loving owner of furry noses and cuddly tigers you fulfill your duties with pure joy, but sometimes it would be nice if pets could open the door by themselves.

Intelligent pet flaps for every household

If you own a closed yard or a garden, you can make life a lot easier by installing a pet flap in the front door, a window or a wall. Intelligent systems such as those from petWALK can be flexibly adapted to personal needs and structural conditions. More information about the burglar-proof, airtight and heat insulated pet entrance doors can be found at www.petwalk.at. The petdoor is available in two sizes and can be controlled by remote control, motion detector, collar tag or smartphone app. your four-legged fluffy friend will get used to the new tech in no time. Firstly, open the door manually and give your pet time to explore the entrance for itself. The pets can be lured through the door with a reward morsel or a voice command. Secondly, it is advisable to switch the door to movement motion detector and set the door opening time to the maximum. As soon as the pet comes closer to the door, it opens automatically and invites the pet to test their new freedom. Only if your pet feels more familiar with the door you can switch to chip recognition by the use of a collar tag.

Away from home, but not from the petdoor !

Responsible owners are reluctant to leave their pets alone at home for long periods of time. Unfortunately, in everyday life not everything goes according to plan thus it can happen, that our four-legged friends have to stay alone longer than their used to. "With an automatic pet door which can be activated via app or web browser, you're well prepared for such emergencies", reassures Stefan Winkler, Managing Director of the Austrian company. This way, you are able to open the pet door while on the move and enable your pet to go outside.

About petWALK

The Austrian Company petWALK Solutions GmbH is the leading manufacturer of premium entrance doors especially for pets.
