The new pets joy

Thank you home office, there are more cats and dogs owners

20.07.2021

Since Corona, Germany has seen an increase in dog ownership. Thanks to home office, many animal lovers were able to fulfill their wish of having a furry friend by their side. The animal shelters reported more inquiries than ever before, and now you see more and more people taking their new four legged family member for a walk; however, not everyone has thought in advance about the great responsibility that owning a pet entails.

Dogs and cats want out

Loving pets is one thing, but taking care of them is something else. Animals need regular exercises and want to go outside. This task is overwhelming for some new dog owners specially when the home office becomes the new norm; however, anyone who has a garden or some space in front of his/her home can make his/her life much easier by installing the petWALK petdoor, which will grant your pet the freedom at any time to go outside, enjoy the weather, and to do its business. The owners appreciate the ease of work, and the undisturbed peace as their home office becomes quiet, while their furry friends enjoy their time in their favorite places in the house or the garden. Further information is available about the function and the various models at www.petwalk.at. Your chosen door can be customized based on your individual needs and requirements.

Controlled freedom

Modern high tech petdoor solutions with its diverse automated options, can no longer be compared to the old fashioned pet flaps. In addition to the great insulation values which bring significant heat cost efficiency in the winter compared to the traditional flap, the Austrian manufacturer uses motion sensors and RFID technology for contactless access control. You can use an app to track the entry and the exit of your pets while you are not around; due to large number of built in sensors, the door also notices if an attempt is made to open it without any authorization and signals out a loud alarm.

About petWALK

The Austrian Company petWALK Solutions GmbH is the leading manufacturer of premium entrance doors especially for pets. Klaus Kindl founded petWALK in 2010 after discovering a gap in the market for pet doors which are suitable for passive houses as well. The patented and award winning petWALK pet door is an absolutely airtight, heat insulated and burglar-resistant pet door. petWALK can be installed almost anywhere and its design can be flexibly adapted to the needs of pets and their owners. 2018 was the year the petWALK petdoor became smart. The company is already successful in over 35 countries worldwide – from Austria to Australia.
